I have a stick now, which my wife can drive. What is the consensus opinion regarding SMG vs. standard. When I had the M3 with SMG, I did not miss the stick shift. Now that all my cars are stick shift, I miss the SMG in the M3. One good thign about regular SMG's in bimmers, it WILL rev match when you do 2 to 1 downshift off throttle.

Yep, I said it. The e46 m3 you really want is the SMG. Blasphemy you say? Maybe. But all of you are missing out on fantastic vehicles because people with no experience with the system love to perpetuate the myth that the transmission murders puppies and gave your grandmother glaucoma. Ok, maybe your grandmother's glaucoma is an overblown reason for her to get legal herbs, but thats beside the ...

I used to be a manual only person, my last 4 cars were manuals and I never thought I could give them up. Then I drove a DCT M3 and it change my opinion forever. Maybe it's just the soft squishy nature of the BMW clutch/transmissions, but IMO the DCT is the only option for a M3 these days.

Automatic M3 or Manual M3 - m3post.com

I've had only driven manual before I bought mine a few weeks ago. I bought it despite it being SMG as I wanted a manual but the car was nice enough to make up for it. Now I'm not sure I would pick a manual, I'm really enjoying it. It's dim witted and slow in auto but great fun on a hoon in manual mode

SMG vs. manual | The M3cutters

The E46 M3 had a couple major issues, one of the lesser ones is the SMG gearbox. The hydraulic pump often fails resulting in a costly repair. If this happens to a car you own it often make sense to convert the car to a manual rather than fix the SMG unit.

My point is that a manual E46 M3, assuming identical condition and option specs, is not worth many thousands over the SMG variant. However, I will attest that manuals should be valued higher. For about $2-3k more, I'd go with the manual. Any more than that seems like it would be too much of a premium.
